American Legion Post Approves Building Plans

Everything Ready for Actual Work on New Legion Home Which Will Be Commenced as Soon as Weather Conditions Permit.

Work on the new home for Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, will be commenced as soon as the weather conditions will permit. The plans have been completed and adopted and at the regular meeting of the Post Friday evening Stanley Matthews, chairman of the building committee, reported everything ready for actual work. The new home will be erected on a lot recently purchased on West O'Reilly street.

Past Commander Thomas F. Coughlin at the meeting Friday evening installed the newly elected officers of the Post as follows: George Potter, commander; Roy E. Jaobs, first vice-commander; Albert Reese, second vice-comander; Peter V. O. Barkelow, third vice-commander; Martin F. Netter, treasurer; Eugene B. Carey, adjutant; Edward Fitzgerald quartermaster sergeant George Davis, sergeant-at-arms; the Rev. Roger B. T. Anderson, chaplain; Thomas F. Coughlin, service officer; Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., historian and athletic officer.

Two meetings each month will be held by the Post. The meeting nights will be the first and third Friday of every month, beginning April first.

Kingston Post agreed to offer the third permanent cup for the International Athletic League of the Y. M. C. A., the other two being donated by the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs.

A report of the recent Brick Day Sale was given, showing to the present time a net of $406.50. This sum was ordered transferred to the building fund. This sum realized from the sale will be added to the present $3,332.82 which is now in the fund. In addition, the Post has a checking fund of $530.67.

At the present time the post has 237 paid up members, with 18 new members for the year. At this time last year the post had a paid up membership of 226.

The members of the post went on record as favoring the universal service act which is now before congress. This act, if it becomes a law, will draft all manpower in the country in the event of war.

At some future date the Legion will bring the film, "The Man Without a Country" to this city and the proceeds will be used for the child welfare endowment fund. This fund provides for children of ex-service men. The local post investigated at the Industrial Home and found that there were no children of ex-service men in that institution.

Since the last meeting the welfare committee reported it has taken care of two ex-service men and their families where assistance was needed. House rent, fuel and other necessities were provided.

William McBride, the retiring chairman of the post activities committee, gave a detailed report of the different activities of the post during the past year which has been a very successful one for the post. At the conclusion of the meeting the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary furnished refreshments.

It was announced that the U. S. Veterans' Bureau Hospital, No. 81, at Kingsbridge, N. Y., was in need of clothing for the men. Anyone having clothing for these men may send it to the local armory and it will be forwarded.

Jardine New Agriculture Head

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 14.—President Coolidge has definitely decided to appoint William M. Jardine of Kansas as secretary of agriculture and the nomination probably will go to the senate today or Monday, it was learned reliably here today.

Dr. Jardine is president of the Kansas Agricultural College. He was a member of the agricultural commission that recently investigated farm conditions.

The selection of the Kansas agriculturist comes after weeks of uncertainty during which the president has considered more than a hundred names. Dr. Jardine has been prominently mentioned from the first. Others who have received strong endorsement were John G. Fields, Oklahoma publisher and ex-Governor Robert D. Carey of Wyoming who headed the agricultural [illegible].

Recently the Kansas delegation in congress indorsed Dr. Jardine.

Jardine will succeed Howard G. Gore of West Virginia who retires from the cabinet on March 4, to be inaugurated as governor of his state.

Will Pass 48 Hour Week Bill

For Women and Minors in Industry—But Whether It Will Be Republican or Democratic Measure is Uncertain.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Feb. 14.—Governor Smith and the Republican leaders of the Legislature are going to "get together" on at least one important measure at the 1925 session of the Legislature—that providing for a 48 hour week for women and minors in industry.

For the last two years the governor urged the passage of a 48 hour week bill but each time it was killed by the Republicans in the Assembly. Things are different this year, however, because the Republican party in its platform last fall went on record as favoring a 48 hour week law.

Under the present law women and minors can work 54 hours each week. For years the New York State Federation of Labor has advocated a 48 hour week for women and now, it appears, the Federation is about to see its dream realized.

Virtually the only difference in the Democratic bill, which is sponsored by Senator Walker, the minority leader of the upper house, and the Republican measure, is that the former would provide for a straight 48 hour week all the year. Under the Mastick-Shonk bill, women and minors would be permitted to work 54 hours a week in certain industries such as canning and in department stores during the holiday rush period.

While Governor Smith would like to see the lawmakers pass his bill it was said today by his close friends that he would approve the Republican plan "if necessary."

During the closing hours of the 1924 session, the Republican Assembly defeated a 48 hour bill sponsored by Senator Mastick and Assemblyman Shonk, after it had been passed in the Democratic Senate.

The proposed bill does not have the approval of all the women workers in the state. At past sessions when it has come up for a hearing, scores of women workers appeared in opposition to it. Their contention was that the only way they were able to earn a living was by working overtime.

The Mastick-Shonk bill is expected to be passed by the lawmakers within the next two weeks.

Ulster County Road Conditions

Lack of Proper Heavy Equipment Handicaps County Officials—Main Highways Opened Before Secondary Roads—Towns Have No Equipment. Make No Appropriation.

Highway conditions throughout Ulster county are as a whole good, considering the season and the severe storms. This is especially true of the main county and state trunk lines. However, some of the town roads and local highways which were not cared for by the towns after the recent storm are now in poor shape due to the recent thaw and freezing and some of them are badly rutted. This condition in most cases is due to lack of equipment by the towns where suitable appropriations were not made for snow removal.

The boulevard on the south shore of the Ashokan, which was not opened up after the last snow storm, is said to be in poor condition with bad ruts in places. This condition exists from the dam south. From the dam north the road was opened by the county tractor but before the lower portion of the road could be reached by the county equipment the severe thaw and freeze had set in. On account of the soft condition of the roadbed following the thaw it is not considered safe to operate the heavy tractors over bare ground and at present one of the tractors is at Ashokan and the other [illegible] the southern part of the county.

Lack of proper heavy equipment to speedily clear the roads after a storm has handicapped the county authorities and before all of the roads could be [illegible] commenced and prevented completion of the work. Fire Sweeps Kansas City Motor Show

Total Loss to Building and Exhibits Amounts to Almost $3,000,000—Building Considered Fireproof—45,000 Attended Show Friday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 14.—A million and a half dollars worth of the finest show cars in America were ruined, the great American Royal stock show pavilion, valued at $750,000 was in ashes, a fireman was dead and further losses in accessories and trucks made a total of almost $3,000,000 as a result of fire that swept the Kansas City motor show early today.

The dead man, Fire Captain John Crane, 65, was crushed under falling walls.

The fire started in decorations, supposedly from defective wiring, a few hours after thousands of persons had left the building. It is estimated there were 45,000 persons at the show yesterday.

The American Royal was built in 1923 and was supposed to have been fireproof.

The decorations were guaranteed to be fireproof, Alexander Henderson, fire chief, said today.

The fire was discovered shortly after 1 o'clock, when $800,000 worth of trucks and accessories were housed. The flames spread rapidly.

The fire could be fought only from one side. It was impossible to bring all the fire plugs into action. All Kansas City departments and five from Kansas City, Kansas, fought the blaze.

Soon after the fire gained headway, explosion followed explosion.

Dr. Kamp attended Borouth and then had him conveyed to the Kingston City Hospital for care and further treatment.

Entertainment For K. of C. Ball

John D. Schenck and his committee on entertainment will announce shortly some of the features to be presented at the Knights of Columbus charity ball to be held at the armory on Friday evening, February 20.

Each year the entertainment part of the evening's program proves to be a decided feature and this year the committee in charge expects to eclipse all former successes along this line.

There is a surprise in store, according to Mr. Schenck, who has been in touch with a number of artists. Other committees are also very busy and from the elaborate plans nearing completion this year's ball should come up to the high standard set by the Knights of Columbus at their annual charity ball.

France Reaches Expense Limit

Government Expenses Equal One-Half of Annual Gross Income of Citizens—Francs Decrease in Value on Bourse on Receipt of News.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 14.—There was a sharp reaction in the Bourse and francs decreased in value today when the declaration was made in the Chamber of Deputies that expenses of the French government were equal to half of the annual gross income of French citizens.

Maurice Viollette, who made the statement, warned the chamber the limit has been reached. Viollette is chairman of the finance committee of the chamber.

"The 1925 budget, requiring 34,200,000,000 francs, is the maximum which can be demanded of the country," said Viollette.

"France's total taxable wealth is a thousand billion paper francs. Computed at six and one-half per cent this makes France's annual income 65,000,000,000 paper francs."

France's financial situation should be taken into consideration by the United States, Viollette said.

Viollette said the income of French citizens was 65,000,000,000 francs and that the government spends 34,200,000,000.

"This is more than one-half," he continued, "whereas the United States spends one twenty-third and England one-twentieth of the citizens gross income."

Viollette warned "public speakers such as Marin," that their "sentimental arguments were more efficacious in private conversations, public speeches on our debts should be restrained."

Deputy Marin told the chamber recently that the United States should credit France with lives lost and men wounded in settling the Franco-American debt.

"No government will ever be able to balance the budget until it is relieved of the crushing cost of the Public debt," Viollette continued. "If the government were a private corporation, it could settle the problem quickly by reducing its capital. But, because it is a government, such conduct would be a scandalous violation of contract and would be a veritable condemnation.

"France will spend eight billion more paper francs in 1925 than it was able to raise through taxes in 1924."

Judge Fowler Appeals For Scout Leadership

Station W D B Z Radiocasted Address by County Judge Joseph M. Fowler—Amarello Brothers and Y. W. C. A. Schubert Choral Club Render Delightful Musical Program.

An appeal for leadership in scouting in the Ulster County Boy Scout organization was radiocasted from Station WDBZ Friday evening, delivered by County Judge Joseph M. Fowler. Judge Fowler delivered a very forceful and interesting address, telling of the work accomplished by the organization and congratulating the association upon its splendid type of boys comprising the Ulster County Boy Scouts.

The Amarello Brothers gave a very fine instrumental concert with selections on the guitar and mandolin and the piano and banjo. They were well received and radio fans expressed their pleasure in hearing them by the number of 'phone calls received.

A feature of the evening, which was not announced on the original program was the presence of the Schubert Choral Club of the Y. W. C. A., which gave a delightful group of three numbers, the first, "Ole Uncle Moon;" second, "Rachem;" and the third, "Goin' Home." They were under the direction of Miss Virginia Los Kamp with Miss Gladys Snow, accompanist. So well was this part of the concert received that the club stated they would be pleased to give one entire evening at the studio providing local radio operators desire them to do so. A post card to Boy Scout headquarters informing Mr. Nesslage as to the above would be appreciated.

Judge Fowler's Speech.

Judge Fowler made plea for Scout leadership. He said:

When the Chief asked me to say a word about the Boy Scouts, I needed no urging. Boosting for the Scouts is one of the easiest things I do; for I believe that a well sustained Boy Scout Organization is a most valuable asset for any community.

Of course, any one of us is apt to judge of a movement or of an organization by the results and evidences which come to his personal attention; so a school teacher is likely to judge of Scouts by the apparent effect upon boys from a scholastic standpoint, a doctor is likely to judge them by its effect upon the boy physically, a business man is likely to judge them by inquiring whether they are dependable and honest in their small business affairs. I have reached my estimate of them from a somewhat different angle, an angle, nevertheless, which I feel sure gives me a basis upon which I may predicate a well founded conclusion.

As judge of the county court, I am also judge of the children's court—sometimes called the juvenile court. Into these courts during the past few years have been brought from over the county dozens of boys of Scout age and so far as I was able I've tried to study these boys and to find out not only why the boys who come to my courts have gone wrong but why others have not, and it is an interesting study. Given the same result in a few cases only, it would not be fair to make a deduction but given the same result in many cases, the deduction is reasonable.

Here is the result: Out of the many cases I have had, only two of the boys have been Scouts, one for a minor infraction and one case being an unintentional wrong doing. Is it any wonder then that I have come to believe that there must be something about the Scout idea that keeps boys out of serious difficulty, and I am not alone in this belief. Only this past week a boy was brought in by a state trooper. These troopers are men of experience and sound judgment and I have found it generally safe to take their suggestions. This particular trooper came to me before the case was called and said "This [illegible] was out with a gun and had no license. I'm sorry to [illegible] him in for he is all-right [illegible] finer boy to handle the gun [illegible] a Scout but of course I couldn't ignore the matter [illegible] tell him what the law is and that [illegible] enough?"

scouting is a decided influence toward good citizenship, both among boys and girls, and that as the number of Scouts increase so will youthful violators of the law decrease, I cannot help but urge support for the scouting movement. What is needed? Money, of course, but that is not now what I am asking. It is for additional Scout Masters for leaders. Every troop must have a leader and troops cannot be too large.

Our council is fortunate in having a most competent executive but his field is too large to take into direct charge the individual Scout. He must have under him a number of Scout leaders. These do not need to be ministers, teachers or professional men—they need not be college men, nor speakers. Briefly then, what are the requirements of a Scout leader? First, he must be a man who himself leads a reasonably decent and clean life. Second, he must have been a boy himself (and all men have not been boys) and even though he may be a long way from boyhood measured in years, he must have in his heart some sympathy and fondness for boys and, third, he must have a few hours a week that he can spare. A man who has himself been a Scout might make an excellent leader and he would have the advantage of not being obliged to spend time learning the work.

What are the compensations? In money, nothing, but you will discover that not nearly as much sand has passed through life's hour glass as you had thought, that you eat better and sleep sounder, that life is more interesting, that your cares are not nearly so serious as you imagined, that you are making an impress upon a dozen or more young lives and incidentally that they are making a better man of you, that you have a dozen or more new friends that will be a lot more loyal than some of the elder ones. In years to come you'll take pride in referring to some successful and upstanding citizen as "He was one of the Scouts in my old troop," and you will always have the satisfaction of feeling that you have helped very materially in upbuilding the good citizenship of the community of which we are all so proud.

If you came up from the ranks, as it were—that is, if you become a leader after having been a Scout, you will be able to pay the obligation you owe your old Scout Leader by showing the way to other boys.

If anyone who is listening in tonight is interested, will he not get in touch at once with Chief Nesslage? He will explain more in detail and who will, I am sure, find a place for him, and if only one such develops as the result of my short talk tonight, I shall feel most amply repaid. I hope there will be more than one.

To all of you, I bespeak an interest in and sympathy for the Boy Scout for believe me, they are well worth while.

RICH MISS HEN

"Cluck, cluck, cluck," said Miss Hen, as another automobile went whizzing by the barnyard. She was very vain and tried to put on many airs. "I thought of getting one of those things myself."

Just then every hen clucked, every rooster crowed and the ducks listening nearby quacked.

"You were going to get an automobile?" asked Mr. Rooster, who was the first one able to speak.

"And pray tell, how could you have done such a thing? Who would have run it for you? Where would you have gone? How could you have paid for it? They say they cost a great deal of money."

"Ah," said Miss Hen, "you all think I am very foolish, but I am not. No, indeed I am not foolish at all. I am very sensible. I know what I am talking about. I could have had an automobile if I had wanted one. I know how to do things.

"I have an excellent business head for a hen."

The other creatures looked at Miss Hen in surprise. She had always been fond of putting on airs, they thought surely this was one too. Yet they couldn't understand how Miss Hen could say such things if she didn't mean some of them.

"Yes, how could you have done such a thing?" asked Mrs. White Hen.

"Yes, do tell us too where you would have driven if you had got one," said Miss White Hen.

"And who would have run it for you. I'd like to know that too, just as Mr. Rooster would," said Red Top, the leading rooster in the barnyard.

"Oh, I don't see, either, how you could have paid for it," said Mrs. Gray-and-White Hen.

"How did you think you could have paid for it?" asked Mrs. Brown Hen.

"Yes, tell us that," said all the hens.

"And they cost so much money," said Red Top.

"Such a great, great deal of money, cock-a-doodle-do," said Mr. Rooster.

"Well, for the hen life of me," said Mrs. Brown, "I don't see how you could have thought of doing such a thing unless you were right out of your hen mind."

"I'm sure I don't understand," said Mrs. White Hen. I know I couldn't afford one and I don't think Miss Hen has more to spend than I have.

"I don't see how she could have afforded what I couldn't afford."

"Tell us," said Mr. Rooster.

"Tell us," said Red Top.

"Tell us," said the other hens.

"You have asked me a great many questions," said Miss Hen, "and as I cannot answer them all at the same time, I will answer each one separately."

She cleared her throat and began.

"How could I have done such a thing? I would have bought the automobile with money I can earn and earn easily too. There! The first answer!"

Miss Hen clucked delightedly. Every creature in the barnyard was looking at her. It made her feel very important.

"The second question; who would have run it for me? Well, ladies run their own automobiles. Hens could run their own and have them made their own size.

"The third question asking me where I could have gone can easily be answered by saying that I would have gone about the countryside, selling eggs to different farmers, wherever I could have made the most money. That is the main thing with automobile owners. It costs so much to keep them going, they say, when they stop to mend a tire here, that I would need to make as much money as I could.

"And here is my answer to your fourth question. I would have made the money to pay for it by selling eggs. They go up in price all the time. I am no longer a poor hen to be despised and to be tooted, tooted at by other folks' horns.

"No, I am a money-making hen. An egg-selling hen."

"Why didn't you buy one?" asked Red Top Rooster, after he had recovered from his great surprise.

"Because," said Miss Hen, "they are too common. I didn't care to spend my time doing nothing but stirring up dust!"

TASTY GOOD THINGS

Cut into rather thick slices boiled sweet potatoes. Place in a baking pan with three or four tablespoonfuls of water or barely enough to cover the bottom of the dish. Spread over the potato slices a little melted butter, then cover with granulated sugar and bake until the sugar melts.

Currant Jelly Sauce.—Cook one onion in three tablespoonfuls of butter until just brown; add one bay leaf, one stalk of celery, chopped, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper; blend all together, add one pint of stock. Keep stirring until it boils; let simmer or cook in a double boiler for fifteen minutes; strain, add half a cupful of currant jelly and stir over the fire until the jelly is melted.

Hot Chicken Salad.—Mix one pint of cooked chicken cut into cubes, one cupful of peas, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of black pepper, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one pimento, cut into small squares, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and set aside after blending well for an hour or two. Make a sauce of one-fourth of a cupful of flour, the same of butter, half a teaspoonful of salt, a cupful of cream and a cupful of chicken broth. Add the seasoned ingredients and let stand over hot water to become hot. Serve from a chafing dish or on hot buttered bread.

Baked Tongue.—Put a fresh tongue in a kettle, cover with boiling water salted; let cook slowly two hours. While hot remove the tongue from the water and take off the skin. Slice a small onion and brown in a tablespoonful of butter, add one-half cupful each of carrot and celery cut into small pieces; stir until well blended, then turn into a roasting pan, pour over about five cupfuls of water in which the tongue was cooked. Cover and bake in a slow oven two hours.

Oyster plant added to a fish chowder makes a most tasty dish, giving an oyster flavor to the chowder which is well liked.

A SATIN FROCK WITH MOLDED LINES.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

In this topsy-turvy world, things often get wrong side about accidentally, and fashion often brings this to pass intentionally. Hence, we have satin suits lined with wool—an excellent example of the unexpectedness of things.

Satin suits and coats, usually but not always fur bordered, are among the serviceable coats for immediate consideration, although one may prefer the equally fashionable ribbed silk. There is, however, a suggestion of twill in some of the newer satins, one lovely import having a lining and trimming of white kasha.

The youthful frock sketched is of pink satin, the circular godets of which give the necessary fullness. It is bordered in loops of pink and silver silk and decorated with pink pearl buttons.

Fabric decorations have reached the point where they are sheer art, which is fortunate, for with so many stunning ways of using fur, we are in danger of being buried under it for want of something equally effective to trim our frocks. Among the new fur border ideas may be mentioned fox, used in two bands set close together, each band of a contrasting color, instead of the more usual wide band. The lighter tone is always placed at the top, which, of course, is another version of the ombre idea—amusing to carry it to fur.

The compose idea, using two fabrics instead of one in the making of a costume, was one of the economy measures of the war, developed from the necessity of combining two old dresses to make one new one. The result is often effective, so no wonder the idea has "carried on."

Kaplan Store To Be Enlarged

Plans have been drafted by Gerard W. Betz, architect, for the reconstruction and enlarging of the large two story frame building at the corner of North Front and Crown streets, owned and occupied by M. Kaplan, as a furniture and stove store. The store floors will be lowered to the street level, and the three or four rooms that have been utilized as the store will be converted into one large and modern store. A plate glass front of the latest design will be placed on the entire frontage of Crown and North Front streets, and the store and building when the improvements are completed will be one of the finest in that section of the city. Work is to be started in a few weeks. M. Kaplan has begun a rebuilding sale for the purpose of reducing his large stock prior to the beginning of the work of tearing down the old fronts and reconstruction of the interior.

Mrs. Century Milstead

Century Allen Milstead, all-American football tackle of Yale, has been suspended temporarily from the university because of his marriage to Miss Mildred Bechtel, of Milford, Conn., nearly a year ago. The college authorities say the marriage did not come to their attention before, although it was published in newspapers generally when it occurred. Milstead's wife has for two years been secretary to a member of the faculty. Milstead has attained prominence in wrestling and track events besides football since his entrance into Yale in 1922.

CHURCH OF COMFORTER ADULT BIBLE CLASS.

The annual meeting of the Service Class, of the Adult Bible Class as it is commonly called, of the Bible School of the Church of the Comforter was held at the home of Mr and Mrs. Fred Rich, 360 Hasbrouck avenue on Wednesday evening. Notwithstanding the storm a large number of the members of the class were present and joined heartily in celebrating the third anniversary of the organization of the class. In the three years it has grown until now there is a membership of over sixty. A large birthday cake with three lighted candles was presented by Mrs. Kelder, one of the members of the class.

Considerable business for the benefit of the class was transacted, after which the election of officers took place. One of the men suggested that a lady be elected as president for the coming year. This suggestion met with the approval of all the men and Mrs. Theodore Floyd was unanimously elected. The other officers are: E. J. DuBois, vice president; Mrs. E. J. DuBois secretary, H. G. LeRoy, treasurer. Mrs. Floyd announced that since the men had so greatly honored her she would reciprocate by appointing Eugene Fowler chairman of the refreshment committee and all the men of the class as his assistants.

The annual report shows the total receipts for the year amounted to $172.33. Of this amount $50 has been contributed to the parish house fund and $50 to the Near East Relief, also small contributions to other benevolences. There is a balance on hand of about $25. After ice cream and cake had been served a very enjoyable evening was spent socially. Some of the members enlivened the evening by performing some very amusing stunts. The class is looking forward to the future with great anticipation.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

CAT'S BLOOD

IN FOLK LORE medicine the blood of a black cat plays an important part. It is recommended for a sty, the shingles, and for a spavined horse, among other things. As a rule it is a few drops of blood from the tip of a black cat's tail which is specified as possessing the magic and curative qualities. For ringworm blood from either the tail or the ear will do. Canada and New England appear to be the regions in which this bit of folk-medicine is most popular.

This superstition, like all the other superstitions connected with cats—and there are many of them—has its derivation far back in the past. It is a remnant of the cat worship of the ancient Egyptians and of pussy's mysterious connection with the moon-goddess, Isis—a connection which may have at first been suggested by the physical peculiarities of a cat's eyes, their faculty of adjusting themselves to light and darkness so noticeably.

In all ages and in all mythologies the cat has appeared as a mystic creature, but her first appearance as a creature of magic was in Egypt; in which country, indeed, the animal is supposed to have been first domesticated and from which country both its name, "cat," and the reputation of mystic qualities attached to it, spread throughout the world. The use of the black cat's blood in folk-medicine is an appeal for relief to Isis—or, perhaps, to the cat-headed goddess Pshat.

Have You This Habit?

FLY-AWAY NANNIE

"AND be sure to lock the door after you," ended Nannie's mother. But by this time Nannie was out of sight and hearing. It was always that way. This was just like her—going off half-cocked and losing the end of her mother's directions. Now the chickens would all escape while she was bringing in the eggs. Nannie was what the neighbors called a "fly-away child."

Then she grew up. She was pretty and she was pursued. Christopher pursued her with slow and deliberate methods. Christopher always weighed the consequences before acting. The ground was solid, not only beneath Christopher's feet, but also several yards in advance of him. Indeed, he cut a poor figure beside young Dashwood, who would take a situation by storm, who won—if he won at all—by his ardor and sweeping ways. Dashwood posed and gestured before Nannie with his hat on the side of his head and his air of "Take me or leave me and be quick about it—you won't get a second chance." But, in spite of the fact that young Dashwood was so gay and romantic, and Christopher unhurried and rather heavy, Nannie really liked Christopher better.

Then, one day at the railroad station in town, she thought she saw Christopher's broad shoulders through the crowd—Christopher and another girl. As she watched he bent and bestowed an unmistakable farewell kiss upon the lady clinging to him. Then Nannie, hot with mortification, boarded her suburban train. Presently Dashwood joined her. During their half hour journey Nannie brought matters to a head and reached home engaged to be married. There on her own porch was Christopher, who had never been to town that day at all.

When Nannie had been married for a year young Dashwood left her. She had enough money to scrape along with—but that was all. One day she read the alluring advertisement of a mining investment. By purchasing shares at the existing low price she might triple her income in a month. If she waited a day to get advice from her broker her opportunity would be gone. Nothing venture nothing have. Nannie got together every bit of her capital she could lay hands on and bought mining stock heavily. Then, before long, her friends heard that she was penniless. "Living without aiming as usual," was the general verdict.

But Christopher went to see her. Laboriously and methodically he told her that he had always loved her. Nannie's reaction was outraged anger. She would show Christopher that, even if she was destitute and a beggar, even if her husband had deserted her, she would keep to the narrow path of virtue, she wouldn't be insulted by any one, she was still Dashwood's wife. So she interrupted him with old-time vehemence and Christopher went away for good. Too late she learned that, had she waited for the end of Christopher's long proposal, she would have known that he came to tell her the news of Dashwood's sudden death and her own freedom.

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPERS

THE evening meal on Sunday is usually a light one. To the old-fashioned folk, there is no dish that they like better than mush and milk.

For those who enjoy the chafing dish or who are fortunate to have men in the family who like to dabble in meal getting, Sunday night is a good time for their activities. Omelets, rarebits, with sandwiches and coffee, toast with various additions, are all good. Oysters stewed, fried or escalloped, are not beyond the ability of a tyro in cookery.

A good piece of toast may be the basis for any number of good things. Creamed eggs, fish, oysters or creamed vegetables of some kind, as vegetable oysters. An easy way to prepare fried oysters is to dip them in milk, then in rolled cracker crumbs and fry them until plump, in butter. Serve with a relish of some kind, even the ordinary cabbage finely shredded and dressed with vinegar and salt, is most palatable. If one wishes to be quite elegant, serve the relish in halves of lemon, one for each plate.

An onion sandwich is very popular for a night lunch. Cut the mild onion into very thin slices, dip in a good highly seasoned French dressing and use between slices of thin buttered bread. With a glass of hot milk, or a cup of cocoa, the appetite is satisfied.

Onions are especially recommended to ward off disease, and in keeping the body in good health.

A simple salad that even a child may be taught to serve is lettuce with peanuts and a mayonnaise dressing. Use head lettuce, sprinkle with chopped nuts, a very little minced onion and a generous portion of mayonnaise. This with bread and butter and a hot drink, is another good meal.

Cottage cheese with minced pepper, olives and a bit of salad dressing is a nourishing dish.

Cold meats, fish and fowl are always popular to serve for a supper dish. Any may be used as sandwich filling which are in too small pieces to serve as cold meat.

PERMANENT PERFECTED PERFORMANCE

BROWN TALKS ABOUT MARKING TIRES

"Tire manufacturers certainly made it tough for a great many car owners and for some of us dealers too, for a while, by the mystic and unusual figures with which they marked the sizes of balloon tires, says Harris Brown, of the Brown Tire Co., distributors of general tires in Kingston. "The method of marking still continues and causes many a motorist to scratch his head when first he tries to figure out what size of balloon tires are applicable to his car, and what the size figures actually mean."

"This is no attempt to alibi for the tire manufacturers, for they certainly made confusion that perplexed the men who sold their tires as well as the men who bought them. It is however, an attempt to explain why balloon tires are size-marked as they are. The answer is that balloon tires are the first tires to be labelled with their real sizes since the days when there were nothing but fabric tires."

"A 30x3½ fabric tire meant just that.—thirty inches across the center from tread to tread, and 3.50 inches in cross section from outer side wall to outer side wall. The standards were adopted by the Rubber Association many years ago and tires were stamped accordingly."

"Some years ago cord tires invaded the field. Cord tires are regularly ten per cent larger in cross section than their fabric forbears, or, as the manufacturers advertise them 'ten per cent oversize.' So a cord tire to replace a 30x3½ inch fabric tire is really 3.50 inches plus ten per cent, or a total of 3.85 inches in cross section. However, the manufacturers stuck to the fabric size markings, until the balloon tire came. Balloon tires carry their actual size figures."

"The 25x4.40 balloon tire has the same cross section as a four inch cord tire, 4 inches plus 10 per cent. The 31x4.95 balloon has the same cross section as the standard 4½ inch cord. The 21x5.25 balloon is a new size which has no cord or fabric predecessor. The 32x6.77 corresponds to the 5 inch cord, the 30x5.77 balloon to the 5 inch cord, the 22x6.50 balloon is new and carries its actual cross-section marking and the same is true of the 22x6.00 the 32x6.75 and the 27x7.50 balloons."

"By keeping these things in mind one ought to be able to chase all the nonsense out of balloon tire sizes at once."

Even balloon tires have their overtire equivalents. The overtire for 28x4.40 is the 31x4.95, for 31x4.95 the 32x6.77, for 30x5.77 the 32x6.50, for 32x6.50 the 32x6.75, the latter to have no overtire size equivalent but it [illegible] overtire for the 32x6.50 tire does the tire is changed from a 4.5 to [illegible] inch width."

STATE OWNED AUTOMOBILES.

In recent months, at least, no announcement from a state department has caused more favorable comment than that from the office of Attorney General Ottinger, who said that while he had inherited a state owned automobile for official use he could see no reason for having a car, and for that reason would return it and not have it charged up to his office. The Attorney General, however, did no more than State Treasurer Pounds, the latter having refused to accept a state car when he was inducted into office.

According to Attorney General Ottinger and State Treasurer Pounds it would be difficult for them to find valid reasons for accepting state owned cars. They did not attack other department heads, their contention being that the only use they could discover for a car would be to convey them back and forth to the railroad station on their arrival and departure from Albany. Aside from this, they could see no use for cars and neither of the state officials felt that the state should pay their taxi charges when they were not traveling on state business. That ended state owned cars with Mr. Pounds and Mr. Ottinger.

It may be remembered that under the Miller administration three or four officials refused state owned cars, preferring taxis when necessary to use a car in the service of the state. It was then held that the cars were not for the personal pleasure of state officials but were for official business rather than the comfort of department and bureau heads. Governor Miller also recommended that the cars be properly designated so they could be identified as state property.

Granting there are departments where state owned cars are imperative, it is safe to assume that there are other departments where they are not needed and should not be allowed. It is more economical to use taxis under ordinary conditions and it is apparent that Governor Miller had some idea of what he was saying when he wanted to control joy riding in state vehicles. There have been joy riding escapades in and around Albany that did not savor well, but it is certain that the stories will not be circulated about the office of Attorney General or that of State Treasurer Pounds.

ANOTHER PACE THAT KILLS.

We have all heard of the pace that kills morally and physically. There is also a pace that kills or withers real talent, in the view of a writer in Scribner's Magazine, who says that four years of modern undergraduate life "would have been fatal" to the genius of Mark Twain, Bret Harte or Frank Stockton. Our colleges, says Henry Rood, are "humming if not roaring" with activities in which art "can have no part, hold no commerce." One, two or five thousand young men "are intent on highly organized word and highly organized play"—in startling contrast with old memories of life in the same college town, of its "blessed vistas of time and space, unhurried, seemingly endless." Then one had "leisure for mind and body, abundant opportunity to dream, to submerge himself unafraid and undisturbed in those mysterious depths where imagination holds sway."

To be part of an overworked, ever-hurrying intellectual machine, to think in set grooves and ever follow with the restless, surging crowd, is fatal not only to the literary aspirant but to the man of any chosen field of endeavor, in college or after college. The machine process, the socialized or community effort by itself, is death to the development of that individual initiative which must precede all real achievement. A man must have leisure to reflect, to invite his soul, to "dream." For so-called dreaming is by no means the waste of time it is usually supposed to be. There are periods when the inventive mind is accomplishing most when the man is supposed to be doing nothing at all.

Dr. Russell H. Conwell, who has lectured 6,127 times on "Acres of Diamonds," announces that of the 4,003 millionaires in the United States only 40 are dishonest, thus striking a blow at the poor man's treasured theory that his poverty is the result of his honesty. How Dr. Conwell became acquainted with the intimate details of the history of the 4,003 exculpated millionaires is not stated.

According to Republican Congressman Wood of Indiana, "the salvation of this country and its future success depend on the progressive conservation of the Democratic party and the conservative progressiveism of the Republican party." Just what he means—if he knew just what he meant—is not stated.

PROTECTION FROM HIMSELF.

When you think of all that has been done for man, to try and protect him from himself and his fellow man, you are almost lost in wonder.

What Pasteur has done for the people of France commercially, as well as from a health standpoint, is of course known to everybody. The work of Gorgas of the United States in the Panama Canal Zone, Lister in England, Virchow and Koch in Germany, Banting in Canada is also known.

That Diphtheria is not the terrible fatal disease since the introduction of anti-toxin is shown by the wonderful reduction in the mortality from the dread ailment.

But now they have taken even another step. Parents of school children in many centres have been willing to allow their children to take the test as to whether they are susceptible, that is likely to contract Diphtheria, whenever or wherever it is prevalent.

And then when a youngster is found susceptible he is injected with a preparation to prevent him contracting the trouble. When he is not susceptible, it is of course not necessary to do anything.

The results show a definite decrease in the amount of Diphtheria in the neighborhoods, where these experiments are being tried.

Then a youngster recovering from measles, can produce a serum that will prevent other youngsters contracting the trouble, has a likewise been satisfactory proven.

And now that other miserable trouble Scarlet Fever, from which youngsters suffer, and have the results hanging on for years and for life, is being investigated from the same standpoint, and likewise with satisfactory results.

It is when we think of the above advances that we feel grateful to these investigators, and have almost a feeling of awe for their wisdom.

And yet if we think further, we are apt to wonder why we have been so slow learning all these things.

Here and there some patient student with a love for the laboratory, and the lure of scientific knowledge, makes the discoveries from which you and I, and all the world, derive the benefit.

Hardware Dealer's Duty

In a political campaign the hardware dealer has his duty to perform as a citizen. He should be a leader of progressive thought in his community. He, above all, should base his judgment on fact. He should separate the facts from the chaff, and the principle from the blather. Having done so, he can then use his influence quietly for worthy candidates, for sound principles and new hopes, keeping free from passion and personal offenses. Heated arguments have never helped a merchant—neither have they ever converted anyone.—Good Hardware.

Well?

The proper patient in the big hospital had had the best of care and attention not only from doctors but also from the nurses. When the time came for his discharge he fervently expressed his gratitude for all the kindness he had received. "And as for you, miss," he said in a choking voice, "you're been more like an angel from heaven than anything else; in fact, I look upon you as 'ardly 'uman."—The Lyons Mail.

Radio Mystery

A fireman testing an alarm was startled to hear soft music on the line. A moment later he heard a woman singing. A full concert program followed. The reason for the music is a mystery. One theory is that the wire of the alarm is picking up from an earth line, another that it is the result of induction on overhead lines.

Frost and Its Causes

Frost occurs when there is a clear sky and little wind. Heavy, low clouds act as a blanket, preventing the earth from giving off its heat. A moderate wind is generally an effective deterrent of frost, since it keeps a thin layer of cold air from forming near the ground, mixing the warmer air of the upper regions with it.

WHY

Wives Want Husbands to Learn to Cook

Fricasseed, roasted and broiled meats, vegetables fixed in complicated styles and desserts de luxe are all written in bold, white letters upon the slate of what a husband shall learn to do within the coming year. Brooklyn women are acting to that by having achieved the promise of a cooking school for errant males.

The supposedly modern era when man took over his share of the household duties with a rubber apron and dish towel after dinner in the evenings has passed into antiquity with the time when woman's job was at the kitchen stove and man's at the office desk.

So housewives of Brooklyn approached the American Gas association with their idea and it was labeled "excellent." Then the same guardians of the home approached the male and prospective half of the family. Perhaps more hesitantly the hunch was approved here, too.

It is not enough, the complaining wives who initiated the movement against the peace of the husbands averred, for a man to be able to boil an egg or stew a piece of lamb. There is no reason why a husband should not be able to bake bread, make shoestring potatoes and crisp pie.

"An equal division of labor," is their cry—and they point out that while a man spends eight hours at his office, a woman's day lasts from six or seven in the morning, when she rises to get the children ready for school, until after that time at night when they are finally tucked into their beds.

Why It Is Advisable to Cultivate "Hobby"

Nature photography, botany, geology, conchology and ornithology, are all interesting hobbies that will take one into the open air, into surroundings conducive to health of mind and body. The study of plants, wild animals and birds is, to certain temperaments, absorbing and provides an excellent motive for long rambles into the country and many hours spent close to nature.

There is no reason why one should not have several hobbies and "ring the changes" according to opportunities. Many hobbies dovetail into each other, as it were, and may be run concurrently. Then it is perhaps as well to have an indoor hobby for rainy days and winter evenings. Sketching, for instance, is both an outdoor and an indoor hobby. Wireless, stamp collecting, developing and printing one's camera pictures, are all hobbies that may be pursued indoors, and help to make spare hours worth while at times when outdoors is not particularly tempting owing to the vagaries of climate.

Why Girls Are Preferred

"In Detroit blue-eyed babies are more in demand for adoption than brown-eyed ones," remarked a worker for the Children's Aid society. "We are unable to supply enough children for childless homes, but the majority of applicants, when they describe the kind of baby they want, specify an azure-eyed one. Brown-eyed babies are accepted only as a second choice.

"Girls are much more in demand than boys. Men hesitate to give their name and potential business heritage to an adopted son. They prefer to adopt a girl who eventually will marry outside the family. Girls are also expected to be more impressionable and amenable to control. If parents have lost a child by death, they always like to adopt one that resembles it."—Detroit News.

Why People Quarrel

A well known pathologist has recently made an interesting discovery. He has found that bad temper has the curious effect of increasing the amount of sugar in the blood by from 10 per cent to 30 per cent in the course of a few minutes.

That is why an angry man wants to fight the object of his rage. He becomes hot-blooded because the accession of carbonaceous material intoxicates his muscular system.

The strange thing is that this rapid change is due to a tiny gland about the size of a pin. When it functions normally a person remains calm and even-tempered. If the essence exudes too lavishly, hatred, passion, and quarrels ensue.

Why Pittsburgh Added "H"

The addition of the letter "h" in the spelling of Pittsburgh goes back to the renaming by General Forbes of what had been Fort Duquesne. With the departure of the French from Fort Duquesne, which they fired before leaving, the first thought of the English conquerors was to rename the place in honor of William Pitt, at that time—1758—prime minister of England. The English took possession November 25, 1758. While Forbes' spelling of the name has been represented variously as "Pittsborough" and "Pittsbourgh," he always added the "h."

Why Head Toward Engine

Not long since in these "Here and There" columns there appeared a little item "Why Head Towards Engine?" A medical practitioner in connection with this article writes: "The ideas given there are only common sense, but science will prove that feet towards engine causes blood to go towards the head, inducing sleeplessness. With head toward engine blood flows towards the feet and induces sleep.—Montreal Family Herald.

Feline's Golden Age

Dean Inge tells with gusto of a journalist who was asked to write an essay on cats. He wrote: "A cat has nine lives, but they are seldom required in this country, because of Christianity."—Boston Transcript

HIGHLAND

Highland, Feb. 13.—Friday afternoon, February 6th, the doors of the home of Mrs. Emma Decker were thrown open to receive officers and members of the Auxiliary Club and she with her daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Plass, Mrs. Charles DuBois and Miss Lizzie Decker were ideal hostesses. They made everyone feel at ease as their guests. About 60 were present. One new member, Mrs. Samuel Hunter was admitted. These club meetings are not purely for business and the ladies fully recognize it. The work done by this club is but a beginning of great usefulness along necessary lines. Reports of past year have been most encouraging. All officers and members have served so nobly. This meeting was full to overflowing of good things from devotional, business and social to roll call and reports of recording and corresponding secretaries, treasurer, etc. After the business session there were greetings and words of sympathy and appreciation from all to the hostess. After this came the delicious repast for which the family is noted, and they fully sustained their past reputation. This brought to a close one of the most interesting meetings of the club.

Funeral services for Jarvis Horton were held from Wilcox & Carpenter's undertaking parlors Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Richard Braunstein was the officiating clergyman. Burial in Highland cemetery.

Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church here gave a luncheon Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. R. Seaman. This was from 12 to 2 o'clock and was well attended although the roads were almost impassable, either for automobiles or people afoot. There were two first class menus to select from. It was cheaper to dine there than at home and every one realized the fact that they were helping on a good cause.

H. E. Wilcox was a recent buyer in New York city for his store in this place. He had a very satisfactory white sale the past week.

W. C. T. U. held a very interesting meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. D. Bond. Several attended. There was a special offering taken. It was called "Frances E. Willard Day."

A bus line is being talked of from the river to New Paltz. It would be a good thing and hope it goes through.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Constable are going to move from here and live in Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Kurtz have purchased the James Westcott place on Maple avenue.

Mrs. Amelia Ellmendorf of Clintondale has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Cornell and Captain and Mrs. R. H. Decker.

Miss Wilda Wood is ill and it is expected she will have to be operated upon in Poughkeepsie. Her friends hope for her speedy recovery.

At the fourth quarterly conference a unanimous call was given the Rev. Richard Braunstein to return for another year. His sermons every Sunday are attracting wide attention. He delivers masterly addresses, which gives one something to think on for time to come.

Tuesday evening a committee meeting was held for refreshments for D. of A. card party. Wednesday evening another committee met to complete all details.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weesenarr will occupy the cottage which the Kurtz family vacates on Maple avenue.

J. R. Mellus is confined to his home by illness.

The Rev. Richard Braunstein was the speaker in Newburgh Tuesday evening at the Epworth League convention. There was a very large attendance and it was very successful.

The Daughters of America of this place at the close of the regular meeting Wednesday evening, February 18, will hold a card and domino party, with other games at 9 o'clock. It is hoped that a good number will attend. There will be 20 tables. Refreshments at a popular price. A social evening is in store for all who attend, and then they also will feel they helped on a worthy cause. No lodge can be run without funds. This order is a beneficial one.

Glad to report Mrs. C. E. Baldwin is improving.

J. O. U. A. M. held its regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Zeno Lodge, K. of P., held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening and worked a degree on three candidates.

Mrs. L. A. Martin has returned from a visit in Catskill.

Mrs. Frank Dusenberre of this place was a recent guest of relatives in Gardiner.

Elmer Fisher is confined to his home with a severe cold.

Mrs. Lloyd Plass and sister, Mrs. Kenneth Bradshaw, were in Catskill attending a convention of the O. E. S. on Thursday evening.

Highland Chapter, O. E. S., has an invitation from Kingston Chapter for Tuesday evening next. It will be D. D. G. M. and A. G. L. official visit of the Ulster-Greene district. Some from here expect to attend.

Several from this place took in plays in Poughkeepsie last week.

Should Keep Kiddies' Shoes in Separate Bag

An article that will prove important and useful is a shoe bag made of stout cloth and divided into pockets or compartments to hold the tiny shoes. The small child's shoes should never be allowed to mingle with the shoes of adults, which are inevitably subjected to coarse contacts. One of the favorite stunts of the small child is to see how much of his shoe it can chew. So it's up to the parents to keep that shoe as clean as possible, guarding against the moment when Tommy has a craving for shoe leather.

Shoe bags are simple to make, and easy. All one needs is a square of cloth, with a strip sewed on one edge and stitched into pockets. It can be of cretonne and bound in a plain color, and can match the laundry bag. When tacked to the closet door it is ready for use.

Today We Celebrate

EMMA WILLIARD

Was born at Berlin, Conn., 138 years ago today, February 23, 1787. She was one of the first Americans to win international fame in the educational field. She is one of the few women elected to the Hall of Fame. She began her career as a teacher at sixteen. In 1809 she became the bride of Dr. John Williard. In 1814 she opened a seminary for girls at Waterford, N. Y. It was moved to Troy in 1821, and under the name of the Troy Female Seminary became one of the best known institutions of its kind in America. She also founded a school for girls in Athens, Greece, and supported it by writing books. She died in 1870.

CONQUEST OF GEORGIA BY THE AMERICANS.

On this date in the year 1779, the battle of Kettle Creek, Georgia was fought—a victory for the American Arms, which gave the infant nation full possession of the state. The site of the conflict in Wilkes county is being preserved as a shrine by the D. A. R.—a shrine of American patriotism. Five hundred Georgians under Gen. Clarke opposed 700 British under Col. Boyd. The battle was one of the shortest and fiercest of the Revolution. Gen. Clarke was wounded, but refused to leave the field until the foe had been utterly routed.

Col. Boyd was killed. For years the 14th of February was a gala day for the Georgians. War Hill, where the battle took place is now the property of the D. A. R.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

Among the ancient Romans the 14th of February was celebrated as the feast of the Lupercalia.

("thrice on the Lupercal I him did offer a kingly crown, and thrice he did refuse" runs the famous play.)

On the feast of the Lupercal the young Romans choose their sweethearts for the year, but personal choice did not figure in the matter, as it was carried out by lottery. The young men of the neighborhood held a meeting and the names of all the young women were written on slips of parchment. Each man in turn drew a name and the young lady in question was supposed to submit to the decree of fate.

When paganism was overthrown by Christianity the festival of the Lupercal became St. Valentine's Day, so named in honor of a priest and martyr who was executed in the year 250. It was only because the day of Valentine's martyrdom fell on the date of the pagan love festival in honor of the goddess Juno, that St. Valentine became "the patron saint of lovers."

RHEUMATISM THAT STAYS ON, THO TEETH AND TONSILS ARE GONE

Health Talk

By Froude & MacKinnon, D's.C.

The rheumatism that stays on after teeth and tonsils are gone, is certainly a mean sort of rheumatism, for it makes the surgeon and the dentist both appear to be bad guessers. But it sometimes happens.

When there are pus pockets at the roots of teeth, and the tonsils are diseased, there is very apt to be a diseased body. But usually there is another cause for rheumatism which pulling teeth and removing tonsils do not affect. When liver and kidneys are underactive, due to spinal nerve pressure, it takes chiropractic spinal adjustments to restore health.

J. L. MacKINNON, D. C.

OPERATIONS FAILED BUT CHIROPRACTIC SUCCEEDED

"I was confined to my bed with what the doctors said was sciatic rheumatism, due to the bad condition of my teeth and tonsils. I had all the teeth pulled. Then I went to Hot Springs, Ark. The physician there said my tonsils were responsible, and removed them. After this I took a thorough course of baths. I returned home in May still suffering and growing worse. Again I was in bed. Chiropractic was advised, and I tried it. After six adjustments there was some improvement. I continued and was able to get about with a cane. Now I am well, and I have been able to return to my work as a railroad conductor. I am 58 and I have been so much benefited and that I want every one to know."—C. R. Blackley, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 18811.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Greatest Fort on American Soil

To Virginia, the "Mother of Presidents," goes the honor of having upon her soil the greatest and most important fortification in the United States. It is Fortress Monroe at Old Point Comfort at the mouth of the James river and it bears the name of a Virginian, President James Monroe.

Fortress Monroe was begun in 1817 and was built primarily as a defense for the navy yard at Norfolk. It was designed by Gen. Simon Bernard, a famous French engineer who had served under Napoleon and who held a commission in the American army from 1816 to 1831. With an area of 80 acres surrounded by a moat from 75 to 150 feet wide and filled with tidewater from 8 to 15 feet deep, Fortress Monroe was believed to be impregnable to a land attack.

In 1818 Virginia ceded this stronghold to the federal government, little realizing that half a century later it would be the strongest threat of the federal government against her sovereignty during the Civil war. Although the Confederates seized the Norfolk navy yard at the outbreak of the war, the Stars and Stripes remained over Fortress Monroe and it gave to the Union forces command of the waterway, Hampton Roads.

During the Civil war Fortress Monroe saw many a historic event. There Gen. B. F. Butler, its commander, struck the first blow at slavery by ruling that slaves who came to him seeking their freedom were "contraband of war," and setting them to work strengthening the fort. Under its walls the iron-clad Merrimac, or the Virginia, as the Confederates called her, destroyed the Cumberland and the Congress and the next day engaged in the terrific combat with the "little cheesebox on a raft," Ericsson's Monitor, a vessel which revolutionized naval warfare.

There, too, was played the last act in the drama of the Lost Cause when Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, entered the gates of Fortress Monroe as a prisoner of war, his dream of a separate nation broken, and for two years paced a cell in it.

Fortress Monroe had a part in one more great conflict, for when the United States entered the World war, many of the men who commanded her artillery and gave such a good account of themselves "over there" had received their training in the artillery school at that fort.

All Seemed Satisfied

A new gallows and drop pit had been constructed at a county prison, but it was some time before the hangman could get away to inspect it. When he did so, he asked the head jailer if there had been any difficulty in expeditiously carrying out the death sentence.

The jailer replied that he thought her whole have never had any complaints, as he said.—London Tit-Bits.

Personal Health And Bathing

Pint of Water and Desire to be Clean Only Things Necessary for Bath, but Some People Lack Desire.

In a health talk on "Bathing" broadcast Friday evening from station WGY, Schenectady, Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., state commissioner of health said, "Fitness is determined by the condition of the whole body. Whoever neglects the care of his skin is neglecting his body."

Dr. Nicoll said that most people bathe from habit or for the comfort or pleasure they get from it, for much the same reason as they take food, and that comparatively few know the relationship between bathing and personal health.

"Few people," said Dr. Nicoll, "know that the skin in addition to being a protective covering is the great heat regulating organ of the body. When in health temperature of the human body remains practically the same in heat and cold, in summer or in winter, whether a person wears no clothes or sews himself into many garments. The skin through its pores and the many little blood vessels and nerves with which it is supplied, automatically takes care of the bodily temperature.

"A person runs, or is out in the hot sun. Heat of the body follows. The network of little nerves reports the fact to the skin. Its mesh of capillary blood vessels dilate; water oozes out; evaporation of the water cools the blood at the surface and it returns to the interior to stabilize the general bodily temperature.

"At another time this same person sits still in a cold room. His body radiates some of its heat into the surrounding atmosphere and were it not for the heat regulating power of the skin his temperature would drop. But the nerves report the fact to the skin and the small blood vessels there begin to contract so that less blood is at the surface to be cooled. The nerves also report to the muscles and they begin to tremble and shiver. This causes the production of more heat.

"If the pores of the skin are completely stopped up (as they were in a historical case of a child whose body was covered with gilt paint) the person will die within a short time due to interference with the heat regulating mechanism. Perspiration goes on continually, generally insensibly. One notes it particularly if he wears a rubber coat, or when heavy shoes are worn, for he finds his clothing of his stockings wet or damp. So we bathe; first to remove the residue of this insensible perspiration, second, to keep the pores open, and third, to produce a definite environmental temperature for our comfort—a hot bath to add warmth to the body or a cold bath to lessen the bodily heat. A warm or hot bath will often soothe a person weary with effort. A cold bath or cold sponge often brings sleep to a feverish, nervous person.

"The smaller the body the greater relatively is its radiating surface. So we protect the tiny infant from contact with a too low temperature or from draughts which very rapidly evaporate the insensible perspiration, furthermore, we do not bathe him at a temperature much below that of his body. Delicate persons who make little exertion often find cold baths upsetting unless they get a good muscular reaction by vigorous shivering, or extra clothing immediately. The healthy athlete, however, takes his cold shower, hastens the needed cooling of his body, and thus strives to be clean and fit.

"There is no universal rule for bathing. Society, however, demands that its sense of smell shall not be offended by the dried residue of perspiration, otherwise the person dripping with perspiration might merely rub himself dry. A good social rule is to cleanse the whole surface of the body at the end of each day. Florence Nightingale once said a pint of water and a desire to be clean is all that is necessary for a bath. Anyone can obtain the pint of water but not everyone has the 'desire to be clean.'"

Hark, Hark, the Lark!

A little daughter of the slums, on her first day in the country, saw a lark motionless, high in air, pouring forth its lovely music. She listened a moment, then she ran to the matron.

"Oh, Miss May," she said, "there's a sparrow up there, and he can't git up and he can't git down, and he ain't doin' a thing but holler about it."

Largest Man on Record

Miles Darden, who at the time of his death, in Tennessee in 1857, weighed more than 1,000 pounds, is said by some authorities to have been the largest man of whom there is any record. He was 7 feet 6 inches in height, and at the age of forty-seven weighed 871 pounds. He was fifty-nine years old when he died.

Advertising Waste

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, speaking to the recent Distribution Conference at Washington, referred to money wasted in advertising and sales promotion by national advertisers who are not properly informed on market conditions.

Secretary Hoover put his finger on one of the real causes of high sales costs.

This great country is a collection of markets.

Few manufacturers can profitably enter all markets. Market selection is the national advertisers' sure road to good business.

Newspaper advertising gives the national advertiser one great advantage—he can use it where he needs it. And he needs it wherever market conditions favor the sale of his product.

"The Right Way to Use Newspaper Space" and "The Newspaper Route to All Good Markets" are two valuable books that deal with this big subject. They will be sent, without cost or obligation, to manufacturers and distributors who will address THE BUREAU OF ADVERTISING, American Newspaper Publishers Association, 270 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Cleveland Six Makes 1000 Miles in 745 Minutes

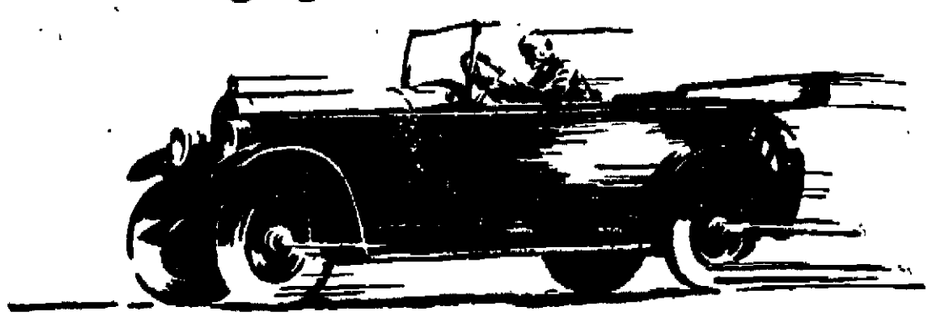
Averaging Over 80 Miles An Hour!



New Coach Premier

f. o. b. Cleveland
Body by Fisher

Now there can be no question as to the supremacy of Cleveland Six performance.

Five weeks ago, at Culver City, Cal., its record of 1,000 miles in 848 minutes electrified America.

On January 27th, also at Culver City, Cleveland Six lowered this record to 1,000 miles in 745 minutes. This astounding performance is 1 hour and 43 minutes faster—an average of over 80 miles an hour.

It is 41 minutes faster than the time recently made by a higher-priced six-cylinder car.

It ranks as one of the outstanding feats in the entire 25 year history of automotive development and progress.

Yet this second run was made with a deeper purpose than the accomplishment of this amazing speed and endurance victory.

It was made to verify, under the most gruelling conditions, the superb design, materials and workmanship that stamp the Cleveland Six as one of the outstanding cars of all time.

You may never drive 1,000 miles in 745 minutes. You may never subject your car to so heartbreaking a test of endurance.

But whatever Cleveland Six model you select will give you the same unexampled engineering and structural qualities that have made this marvelous feat possible.

Ladies' Night Dinner a Success

The ladies' night dinner given by the Men's Bible Class of the Fair street Reformed Church was one of the biggest successes of any affair given by the class. There were about 200 served to a Virginia ham dinner. The dinner was prepared by the edwards and kitchen committees of the class and was served by the girls of Miss Nellie Woolsey's class, Miss Mary Crosby's class and Mrs. Burch's class. There were also several girls of other classes who had volunteered their services. The girls were all dressed in knickers and white blouses and made a very beautiful appearance and rendered good service under the leadership of William Cornell.

The program was started by Mrs. Charles Lieske and Mrs. William Mills who rendered several vocal selections. During the dinner a number of songs were sung by the members and guests under the leadership of Paul Zucca, of Zucca's orchestra, and his assistants. President Ferris Davis presided and called upon the first speaker, the Rev. Jerry Wemple of Saugerties, who spoke on "The True Values, Other Than Money Values," such as the value of true friendships. Mr Davis next called upon the Rev. Dr. F. B. Seeley, who told of his joy of being back with the class again after his illness. Dr. Seeley then introduced Dr. Robert F. Watson of Brooklyn, who gave one of the best talks that has been the pleasure of the class to listen to for some time.

The committee wishes to thank all those who helped to make the dinner a success. The members of the class instructed the secretary to invite the Men's Community Club of Stone Ridge to be the guests of the class at their regular March meeting, Friday, 13.

Princess de Conti

She was the daughter of Louis XIV and Louise de la Valliere. She married Louis Armand de Bourbon, whose brother was chosen king of Poland. Louis Armand died of the smallpox. The princess was celebrated for her wit and wonderful beauty. Muley Ismael, king of Morocco, seeing her portrait, fell in love with her and sent an embassador to demand her hand. Another illness inspired the viceroy of Lima with a violent passion, and one of these pictures being lost in India was found by the natives, who worshiped it as "the image of the goddess of Matsa."—Chicago Journal.

Poisonous Flower

The most familiar relative of the cardinal flower is Indian tobacco, Lobelia inflata, frequently met in open fields, and possessed of medicinal value when correctly used in the treatment of hysteria and spasmodic asthma, says Nature Magazine. The drug known as lobe ne is obtained from this species, overdoses of which are so dangerous that a number of fatal results have been recorded. So powerful is this drug that it has figured in more than one murder trial. The handsome Lobelia cardinalis have been reported as poisonous.

POULTRY

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT IS STIMULUS TO HENS

The use of some form of artificial lighting is a stimulus to laying hens because it offers more hours of daylight and increases food consumption. Its use is now generally accepted not as a proposition of fooling the fowls, but of lengthening the days and partially duplicating spring conditions.

There is some criticism of the use of lights due to the apparent bad results on the health of the birds that is often noticed in the winter.

Some poultrymen feel that if hens are fully matured by fall and are bred to lay no artificial stimulation is needed. Egg production from some flocks will bear out this attitude, but where comparative tests have been made between flocks lighted and unlighted there is no evidence to prove that lighting causes a greater chance for contracting disease.

"Lighting offers an opportunity for greater food consumption, making possible the manufacture of more eggs," says Prof. A. G. Phillips of Purdue university. "Late maturing pullets may be pushed along profitably by lighting in October. With pullets maturing early, a fall molt may be delayed and high-priced eggs obtained. In such a case there is usually a let-up in production followed by a molt in December or January.

"Where pullets mature normally in October and are in good condition of flesh, it may not be profitable to light them until November or December or possibly not at all. When eggs are wanted in January from the older hens that have molted in the fall, the use of lights may be applied between January 1 and 15.

"An easy time to turn on the lights is at 4:00 a. m., using an ordinary alarm-clock alarm key to connect the switch. The extra feed offered at this time should be grain consisting of corn, wheat and oats and it may be scattered in the litter the night before. At 7:30 or 8:00 a. m. more grain should be fed. A mash hopper containing 50 pounds bran, 50 pounds flour middlings and 50 pounds tankage, should be open all the time. About three times as much grain as mash should be fed when lights are used."

Sprouted Oats Will Aid Health of Winter Flock

Green feed during the winter months will encourage egg production and promote the health of the flock. Cabbage or sprouted oats are especially recommended.

Sprouted oats have the advantage of being easily available on most farms. Trays for sprouting oats, made about two inches deep and two feet square with bottoms of plaster lath, are convenient. The trays are supported on an upright frame or rack provided with cleats so that the trays will slide in and out. A four-inch space is allowed between trays.

A rack five feet high will accommodate ten trays or enough for two or three hundred birds. The sprouter is kept in a furnace room or other place where the temperature is 60 to 70 degrees.

Two or three pounds of dry oats are soaked over night and placed in a tray each day. They can be sprinkled frequently and allowed to grow from one-fourth to one inch in length before feeding.

Maturity in Seven Months

About seven months are required for a chicken to grow to maturity. During that period of growth its feed goes to the making of bone, flesh and feathers. When it becomes mature its feed goes to the making of eggs. If a bird matures and commences laying in the fall she will continue laying all winter if properly cared for. Birds that are still growing when cold weather comes will usually commence laying late the next spring.

Poultry Notes

Provide plenty of clean nests for the laying hens.

Grade your eggs for uniformity in size, shape, and color.

Keep out the cracked, dirty, small, and very large eggs for home use.

Gather the eggs in a well-padded pail or basket and reduce breakage.

Use only sound, strong, standard packages and pack the eggs properly.

Sell eggs to a buyer who pays for quality or buys on a graded basis. When your eggs are of best quality and the buyer purchases them on a case-count or "take-run" basis, you get less than they are worth.

Keep the nests clean and market clean, fresh-looking eggs. It spoils the sale of eggs when they are marketed in an untidy condition.

Use the small, dirty and cracked eggs at home. They have a lower market value but are entirely satisfactory for immediate home use.

Keep the eggs in a cool, clean, fairly dry place until marketed. Heat causes deterioration in quality and evaporation of moisture from the egg. Dampness causes the eggs to mold.

Longevity of Time Killers

They say idlers live longer than workers, but doubtless it just seems longer.

Breaking Up Ice Jam With Dynamite In St. Lawrence River To Save Property

BECAUSE of the severe winter this year dangerous ice jams have formed in many places threatening to carry away bridges, put power houses out of commission and back up waters causing floods which might result in the destruction of property and even loss of life. Dynamite is the agent which can be used successfully in emergencies created by these dangerous ice jams. The illustrations show an ice jam in the St. Lawrence River being successfully blasted by dynamite. In the lower right hand corner the blaster is seen setting off the charge by pressing the blasting machine. Holes are dug in and through the ice at proper intervals and the dynamite in sufficient quantity is placed below the ice. One cartridge in the bundle is primed and an electric blasting cap tied to it. The wires are connected to a blasting machine far enough away so that the blaster will not be struck by flying chunks of ice.

Many Kinds of Trees

In North America there are almost a thousand native kinds, besides a large number of foreign trees that have been widely introduced, says the American Nature association in "Tree Habits." Of our native trees, however, only about one hundred can be classified as important timber trees.

Has Many Meanings

The phrase "in limbo" may be taken to mean an indefinite border region in the intermediate state, neither hell or heaven according to the claim of souls there detained; a place of confinement; a prison; a place, real or imaginary, to which things worthless or foolish may be relegated.

Short Jacket Is Offered by Paris

French Dressmakers Are Not Exploiting Ensembles With Long Coats.

A surprising comment, heard in some quarters from stylists returning from abroad, is that "Paris dressmakers are not exploiting ensembles with long jackets, but are really showing short jackets for spring." They further state that the long jacket is supported by American manufacturers based on the fall success of the style.

"Why call it a suit?" the question arises. It is either a costume or an ensemble, but too far removed from our conception of a suit to continue the use of the name. Many are in favor of eradicating a name that will blot out all memories of the dark days when valiant efforts to revive suits in two-piece development were rife.

The reference to two-piece suits as a memory is almost literally true. A great many designers whose reputations were built upon their production of this type of garment have entirely eliminated it. A few do them just to be accommodating for a possible call, but no importance is attached to them. Of the few examples shown, the very long jacket is the prevailing style.

Speaking about the presence of one or two models in a collection calls to mind the fact that nearly every costume collection includes at least one coat formed on flared, slightly molded lines that suggest redingote formation. The fact it so frequently is included makes it well worth watching.

Monkey fur is being accorded a "comeback" this season. Its vogue is a result of the rage for long haired furs, with the additional virtue for spring that it is not a warm fur. Its effectiveness is especially marked on black silk wraps and costumes.

The loosely fitted lining that is allowed to escape beyond the front and lower edges, sometimes forming a jabot effect, is one of the nonchalant style effects that must be handled carefully to be successful. On the other hand, it may be a saving grace where linings that do not always "fit" are found.

Chanel's double coat, or vest coat, as it was called at its introduction last summer, is not entirely forgotten as its lack of response in the fall might indicate. It is still retained, as an occasional idea, by exclusive designers.

Whether simulating tunic styles or otherwise, the best liked type of dress for wear with the ensemble is of one-piece formation.

The costume suit is established for some time and next fall will find them more generally worn than ever.

Chic and Colorful Is This Brocaded Turban

Bright green and gold, and decorated with ostrich feathers tinted in green and cinnamon, are the most attractive points of this hat which promises to have a long run during the season.

Simplicity Feature of Dainty Evening Frocks

Evening gowns are, for the most part, of simple styling, in contrast to the sumptuous models that characterized fall fashions. For the "jeune fille" are a few taffeta dresses, one with pointed tiers set below the hips and another from Lucile in pink, trimmed with blue moire ribbon. Less formal is a quaint plaid taffeta in green and orchid colorings, with full tiers piped in orchid and an orchid ribbon tie in back.

Of more mature conception are the simple evening gowns of soft crepe fabrics on which a touch of beading in rhinestones, pearls or paillettes is used to suggest a low waist, or to mark occasional motifs. These are in bright colors of rose and yellow, and in white, and there is a tendency to relieve straight lines with floating draperies that extend from a hardly perceptible side drape or from the shoulders. Rather low cut decolletages appear in either rounded or V-shaped effects.

Variety in Use of Fur

The vogue for furs at present depends almost entirely on the garment on which they appear. For fur coats the smooth flat furs hold undoubted precedence, but when it comes to fur trimmed topcoats and frocks the shaggy pelts are more effective and more popular.

Is Not Knowledge

The dexterous management of terms, and being able to fend with them, passes for a great part of learning, but it is learning distinct from knowledge.

Not a Bad Definition

Mix tin and copper and you have bronze; mix tin and brass and you have a road hog.—New York Telegram.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 14.—Speculative stocks in every division of the market were offered for sale in good volume today and the market developed decided heaviness shortly after the opening. With the exception of American Can, Cast Iron Pipe, Air Reduction, Maxwell Motors and a few of the low priced industrials the trend was toward lower price levels, with the steel, equipment and some of the oil shares leading the way.

The movement was due entirely to technical conditions within the stock market and appeared to have little relation to outside developments. The weekly trade reviews confirmed the reports of the continuance of increased activity in trade and business; railroad earnings of class I roads for December showed an increase of 24.2 per cent over the same period in 1923; higher prices for crude oil and export gasoline were announced prior to the opening of the market.

Further reaction from the very unfavorable annual report of the Republic Iron and Steel Company was seen in the large offerings of independent steel stocks. Republic lost three points and sold at a new low of 53½, compared to its 1925 high at 64⅜. Gulf States lost more than a point; Crucible, which opened at 72¾, sold down to 71; United States Steel was also reactionary.

The oil stocks failed to hold their ground, though recessions were mostly fractional and good buying appeared for all stocks offered at slight declines from Friday's closing level. Atlantic Refining, Royal Dutch and a few of the standard dividend oil shares were an exception to the general rule and commanded fractionally higher prices. The railroad stocks were inactive rather than reactionary, as also were the equipments, though Baldwin Locomotive slid down more than two points. Reading, Rock Island, Southern Railway and Lehigh Valley absorbed some selling at fractionally lower prices.

Cast Iron Pipe was inactive but higher, selling from 230 to 225 in small volume. American Can made a new high record at 177 and sold in good volume above 176. Strength in Air Reduction, American Sumatra Tobacco, Maxwell Motors common and preferred, Savage Arms, International Combustion Engineering and a few of the specialty stocks was the principal feature of the constructive side of the market.

The grain markets opened steady, with considerable variation in prices of different grains at different markets. Liberty bonds were firm, cotton reactionary.

Strength in American Can, General Petroleum and a few of the market leaders sustained the market until near the close when another deluge of stock selling broke out and prices dropped in every section of the market.

The St. Paul stocks displayed extreme weakness, due to the Washington dispatches that the bill reducing interest rate on government loans would fail of passage; the preferred stock declined abruptly to a new low at 21 while the common sold below 13 for the first time since last November.

Baldwin Locomotive lost nearly four points at 129 on rumors that the report for 1924, due next Tuesday, would not be as favorable as expected. Railroad and motor shares were also reactionary.

May Reach Collins Cave Sunday

Engineers Sinking Shaft Able to Talk With Men in Cave But Get No Sign That Collins is Alive.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 14.—The shaft through which Floyd Collins is to be brought from his Sand Cave prison trembled over the roof of the crawl way at 11 o'clock this morning. Engineers talked from the shaft to the tunnel.

A new estimate of twenty hours was placed on the time necessary to reach Collins.

This would bring Collins's release at seven o'clock tomorrow morning.

The conversation was carried out under official orders after a conference between General H. H. Denhart and H. T. Carmichael, general supervisors of operations.

The shaft was approximately 54 feet deep when it was carried out.

Those who were in the shaft were Carmichael, Mintz Johns, a worker, and Albert Marshall. In the cave were Ed Brenner of Cincinnati, Mike Blevins, and Simon Johns.

The result of the test was given out in an official bulletin issued over the signature of M. E. Posey, state highway engineer, Denhart and Carmichael.

The 20 hour estimate hinges on the position of the bluff under which Collins is supposed to be creviced as regards the shaft.

It is possible, however, according to those who took part in the test, that only a fifteen-foot lateral tunnel will be necessary to penetrate to Collins.

The material through which this would be made, Carmichael believes, is soft mud, easily removed.

Those in the tunnel said they could not hear any breathing or groans of the prisoner, as reported yesterday.

The official communique issued at 9 o'clock read:

"Saturday. Rain, snow and colder during the night. Owing to rotten character of material encountered, progress was almost the slowest on record, having required nine and a half hours to finish a three foot section. Four separate times the excavators were ready to timber, but cave-ins occurred and it is estimated 12 cubic yards of material were removed in this section alone.

"Total depth of the shaft now is 54 feet. The timber section was completed at 6 a. m., and the excavation work resumed at once. Within the next three feet, the limestone roof overlying what is believed to be a cavernous region should be reached, and after breaking through this to the depth of three feet an avenue to Collins may appear.

"Six Vanderbilt college students came in during the night with the avowed intention of outdoing the record of the Kentucky Normal school athletes who have broken all records by filling the one sixth cubic foot dirt bucket every two minutes for an hour.

"Due to the efficiency and spirit of the college students, those in charge are hoping that some more of the same type will offer their services today for this supreme final effort.

(Signed) "H. T. Carmichael, M. E. S. Posey, Dr. D. W. Funkhouser, H. H. Denhart."

Labor Ungrateful, Says Duncan

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Quincy, Mass., Feb. 14.—James Duncan, whose resignation as first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor is under consideration by the executive council of that organization, said today he resented the "ingratitude" of the executive board in not naming him president in place of the late Samuel Gompers.

"As first vice-president, I was in line for the presidency," he said. "Twenty-four hours before being elected president, Mr. Green of the Mine Workers said he was for me for the place. They said they wanted a younger man for the presidency. I am 65 years old.

"Nothing was said about the age when Mr. Gompers was re-elected president at the age of 75 at the El Paso convention. The organization will not suffer with Mr. Green as president as he is a capable man, but I feel keenly the fact that what amounted to more than unwritten law was not followed in my case by the executive council. I feel the council was guilty of ingratitude.

"The next convention of the Federation will be in October at Atlantic City. I will not make a fight for the presidency at that convention. If my friends desire to do so that is another matter."

Duncan was at his home here resting after an operation in New York.

Ellenville Five At St. Peter's

Monday evening at the St. Peter's Lyceum court the Ellenville Wanderers will be the attraction. In the previous game played at the local court the St. Peter's Lyceum quintet met defeat for the first time this season at this court. On Monday evening, another team of fast players will try to duplicate the Peekskill K. of C. stunt.

In the preliminary contest the St. Peter's Juniors will tackle the Chrysler Five. At a previous meeting of these teams a great game resulted. The usual dancing and refreshments will follow the main event.

Foreign Talent Not Impressive

State Boxing Commission To Invite Lightweights of the World To Enter Elimination Contest—Without Mandell or Terris Tournament Will Be Empty.

By Davis J. Walsh.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 14.—Seven foreign countries, no less, will nominate entries for the New York State Athletic Commission's official but futile gesture toward determining the identity of the lightweight who is to step into the abandoned shoes of Benny Leonard. The world, in brief, will be combed to determine the gentleman's successor, and in due season, the commission will gravely announce the winner and new champion.

It will be an impressive gesture but an empty one. The man doesn't live at the moment who is qualified to take up the career of the retired champion. Probably the best of the contending boxers is Sammy Mandell, a worthy but punchless young man, and at last reports he has not seen fit to play with the others.

Mandell has drawn a bye in the American end of the tourneys first round but it is not believed that he will take part in the affair. Neither will Sid Terris, the buck wing champion who probably is Samuel's closest rival. That makes the tourney more or less damp, to put it mildly.

Noting this condition of affairs, the boxing solons are attempting to lend a modicum of authority to the event by introducing the champions of Italy, France, Germany England, Cuba, South America and the Canal Zone as duly accredited participants. The lightweight champions of Jersey City, Medicine Hat and Fort Wayne, Ind., would do just as well. If there is a real lightweight contender available, the United States has the specimen in question.

For example, South America's contender will be Luis Vicentini, a young man without the slightest qualifications for championship company. He is not getting anywhere and never expects to. England has announced that it will choose between Harry Mason and Ernie Izzard. I know nothing of Izzard but if he isn't forty jumps ahead of Mason, he won't do for a minute. Mason was in this country last year and succeeded in getting a decision or so over a flock of third raters. He has no chance of becoming lightweight champion of any place but England.

France's entry will be Lucien Vinez, who claims the lightweight championship of Europe. Lucien will be a big help, unless I miss my guess. His nearest rival is one Paul Fitch, who showed just what he didn't know about boxing when he came here with Carpentier on the latter's last visit. It is understood, also, that Canada plans to enter the merry game with Clonie Tait, a near beer performer. He is mad enough but probably better than some of the other foreign representatives.

Italy's nominee will be one Garzena, whoever he may be. Germany has accepted the invitation, but at the moment has no man to name for the tourney. It is to be hoped that Germany retains this attitude of uncertainty without surcease.

Meantime, the commission will proceed with the business of manufacturing a synthetic champion and when the process is completed, the great American public will proceed to rise to the occasion by demanding that the winner meet Mandell and Terris in succession, provided he gets past the first of this pair to get him. I am pleased to doubt that he will.

DR. MICHAEL TO ADDRESS WINNERS' CLASS SUNDAY

The Winners' Sunday School Class of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church has outlined a very attractive program for tomorrow's session. The class has secured some of Kingston's best musicians in the forming of an orchestra to help with the musical program of the class.

Ten instruments will be used in the class orchestra tomorrow as follows:

Piano, Miss Rhea Burgett; violins, Charles Beehler, Kendall Zelff, Clyde Mould and Robert Wirth; cornet, Everett Roosa and Mr. De-Hoff; trombone, Treadwell Wilson; French horn, Alvin Van Hoevenburgh; flute, Fred Dowell.

Dr. Myron J. Michael will be the special speaker and the class will discuss the International Sunday School Lesson for the day, dwelling especially on Jesus' own problems.

The Men's Class will meet in Epworth Hall for their class period, as the Sunday school room is by far too small to accommodate the entire school, and it is said by those who have watched the great growth of this school that it is only a matter of a few Sundays until the Sunday school will be compelled to use the church auditorium for its opening and closing exercises as there was scarcely room to accommodate the school last Sunday.

The Men's Class has completed plans for a class banquet to be held Tuesday, March 3rd. Dr. John L. Davis, the leader of the largest Bible Class in the United States, (more than 2,000 men) is to be the special speaker for the occasion.

ELLENVILLE WANTS TO PLAY K. H. S. QUINTET

Thomas J. Plunkett, manager of the Ellenville High School Basketball Team, is seeking a game with the Kingston High School quintet. The Ellenville manager is desirous of playing two games, one at the Ellenville court and the other at the local court.

The Ellenville quintet has been undefeated this year and the manager thinks that the supremacy of one or the other should be decided.

"One-Eyed" Connolly Is Not the Umpire

A yarn growing out of the 1924 world's series is drawing laughs. It concerns "One-Eyed" Connolly, the gate-crasher. "One-Eye" was having trouble breaking into American League park, and, although he did get through the lines as a score-card salesman, he exemplified his shrewdest methods to make the gate every day. One day he braced the keeper of the pass gate.

"Who are you?" demanded the gate man.

Grasping his arm in an affectionate manner, "One-Eyed" said:

"Don't you know me, old pal? I'm Connolly."

"Tommy Connolly, the umpire?" queried the gate-tender.

"No, I'm not the umpire, I've got one good eye."

TEAM LEADERS ARE NOW FAMOUS STARS

Baseball Has Galaxy of Luminaries for Pilots.

Playing managers have gained the majority in the American league, five acknowledged baseball stars having been selected to lead clubs in the 1925 season. They are:

Washington, Stanley (Buck) Harris; Cleveland, Tris Speaker; Detroit, Tyrus Raymond Cobb; St. Louis, George Sisler; Chicago, Eddie Collins.

Harris, at the age of twenty-seven years, led the Nationals to the world championship in one of the greatest series ever fought, the first time that Washington ever had entered a world series. He is the youngest of the quintet.

Speaker, a product of Texas, who became famous as the centerfielder of the old Boston Red Sox trio, which included Duffy Lewis and Harry Hooper, has piloted his Indians to one world pennant. After nearly a decade in the American league, the great left-hander still is able to account for his position, although his hair is gray.

Cobb, considered by many the greatest player of all time, continues in centerfield for Detroit, hitting with the best and apparently retaining his sprinting start, which has accounted for hundreds of stolen bases.

Sisler, out of the game most of the 1923 season with the possibility that he would lose his sight, returned to play in the past summer and hit for better than .300. Pitcher, first baseman and outfielder, the star of the Browns has compiled an impressive record.

Collins, a member of the noted Philadelphia infield, a decade ago, which included Baker, Barry and McInnis, is regarded as the best at his position in any league.

	Games.	Batting	Runs scored
Harris	143	.268	88
Speaker	135	.344	94
Cobb	135	.338	115
Sisler	151	.305	94
Collins	152	.349	108

It is notable that Cobb, Bill Wambsganss of the Red Sox and Roger Peckinpaugh of the Nationals, veterans all, each played in 155 games last year, the only men to accomplish this feat.

Golf Playing Permitted by Manager of Browns

Although members of the St. Louis American training squad will be permitted to play golf, they will be required to leave their golf on the links, George Sisler, manager of the Browns, announces. Golf conversations in the hotel and on the ball field will be strictly taboo, Sisler states.

"With few exceptions, golf does not hurt a player," Sisler said. "In some cases it will help, and in rare instances it will hurt a man's batting. However, the Browns can play all the golf they want. But when golf gets hold of a man so strong that he must talk it on the ball field and at the hotel, it's time for him to stop. If I find that golf is bad for any individual, or that a player can't leave his clubs, drives and conversations on the links, he'll have to give up golf."

Not Strictly American

The nickname, "Father of Waters," has been applied to the Nile. Samuel Johnson in his book "Rasselas," says: "Rasselas was the fourth son of the mighty emperor in whose dominions the Father of Waters begins his course."

McGill-Lewis Match a Draw.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Pat McGill of Nebraska won a draw here last night with Strangler Lewis by pinning the ex-champion's shoulders to the mat in the second fall. With the head locked barred, Lewis took the first fall in 47 minutes with an "army go behind" and lock hold combination. McGill got the second in 32 minutes with reverse arm lock.

All Men of Unusual Strength Are Samsons

The story of Sampson is found in Judges 13, and the three following chapters. This man takes his place in Scripture as a judge or ruler, an office which he filled for 20 years; as a Nazarite, that is, one bound by a vow of a peculiar kind to be set apart from others for the service of the Almighty. The obligation was really for a definite time, and during that time the Nazarite was bound to abstain from wine and every production of the vine, and from every kind of intoxicating drink. He was forbidden to cut the hair of his head, or to approach any dead body. In the third place Samson appears as a man endowed with supernatural physical strength. It is this latter quality that first comes to one's mind when he is mentioned, and it is because of that wonderful quality that any man of unusual strength is called a Samson. For instance, a London carpenter, named Thomas Topham, has been called "the British Samson." It is related that in Cold Bath fields, London, on May 28, 1741, in the presence of thousands of spectators Topham lifted three hogsheads of water, weighing 1,836 pounds. Topham was born in 1710, and died in 1753. It is related that he was driven to suicide by domestic trouble.

Eggsactly!

"Herman Finck, whose only fault is that he is always witty, happened to be walking up Baker street with Page, and, stopping in front of Elliott & Fry's, the well-known photographers, they noticed that there was an exhibition of country-life photographs in the window, and that in a basket in the center of the window were a couple of dozen of the best new-laid eggs. This being somewhat unusual for an establishment of this kind, Page said: 'Eggs! Why on earth should a photographer put eggs in his windows?' To which Finck replied: 'I really don't know; I can only suppose that a hen has gone in for a sitting,' which is an example of quick wit I can hardly imagine has ever been excelled."—From "Chestnuts Re-Roasted" by Seymour Hicks.

K. H. S. Quintet Wins Another

Port Jervis Team Lost Again to Local High Five on Friday—K. H. S. Faculty Beat Juniors.

The Kingston High School basketball team added another victory to its list Friday night when it beat Port Jervis High School by a 21-15 score. The game was hard fought throughout. At half time the score was at a 9-9 tie. The Orange county boys played with the same fight which they have been noted for since their entrance in the Duso League. The two pivot men, Sweeney for Port Jervis and Tetley for Kingston were the high scorers of the evening. The first making three field goals and three fouls, the latter making four field goals.

The K. H. S. boys have been showing a lot of improvement in the last two games and have a fine chance to tie the league leaders, if not win out.

Preliminary to the varsity game the K. H. S. faculty five beat the K. H. S. Junior Class team by a 9-8 score. This proved a very fast and interesting game.

SLATTERY OUT DANCED DELANEY AT GARDEN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 14.—In an exhibition of fancy dance steps, Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo again out pointed Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., in a speedy six round bout at Madison Square Garden last night. Slattery was just a step too fast for Delaney. He continually swarmed all over the Bridgeport entry, and disregarding the right hand that had laid Paul Berlenbach and Tiger Flowers low, piled up a succession of points with left hand jabs and an occasional right cross.

The famed right hand of Delaney got into action in only one round, the last. On that occasion, Jack tried desperately for a knockout but it wasn't in the bag. The first five rounds were Slattery's by a comfortable margin.

NURMI IN SPECIAL TWO MILE RACE TONIGHT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 14.—Paavo Nurmi will make a determined effort tonight to reduce the newly created record for two miles made by Willie Ritola at the annual games of the New York A. C.

Aided by the fast, banked track at Madison Square Garden, the famous Finn is expected to fairly fly through the special two mile race arranged for his benefit. Harry Helme, of Buffalo, Verne Booth, former intercollegiate distance champion, and Ed Kirby, ex-Cornell star, will be Nurmi's competitors.

Ritola will not face his fellow countryman in this race. Willie has entered the three mile run and is expected to create several new records enroute.
